Dutch abortion boat puts tomorrow in Morocco

INTERIOR The Dutch abortion ship Women on Waves arrives tomorrow in Morocco. The ship should arrive around 13.00 in the port of Smir, as late as the international organization know. Green MP Liesbeth van Tongeren is present to welcome the boat. by Lex Boon

The abortion boat to Morocco at the invitation of the Mouvement Alternatif pour les libertés Individual Elles (MALI), who pursues the legalization of abortion. The ship with Dutch flag in international waters can pregnancy of Moroccan women abort, because the Dutch law is in force.

In Morocco, abortion is illegal. Yet every day around six to eight hundred abortions performed. This happens so often unsafe especially many poor women die. Birth control and emergency contraception are still available in the country.

Women on Waves threatened earlier in Netherlands persecuted after the declaration of the Health Care Inspectorate. The organization was in 2009 for the Spanish coast illegal abortion pills have been distributed to women with early pregnancy. Justice found no criminal investigation.

"MOROCCO WANTS TO NOISELESSLY PASS"

NOS correspondent Ellen of Bovenkamp said this morning on Radio 1 that Morocco does not really waiting for the arrival of the boat. Parties have reacted negatively but quiet. "They want it as quietly as possible pass."
