

HOME > CULTURE > TECHNOLOGY > THE CONVERSATION

Flying Feminism: Drones Drop Abortion Pills On Catholic Poland

By The Conversation | July 1st 2015 11:37 AM | Print | E-mail | Track Comments

RSS Share / Save Facebook Twitter Like

A Dutch feminist pro-choice activist organization, Women on Waves, has been using a drone to drop abortion pills across the Polish-German border.

The aim of the flight has been to highlight Poland's restrictive abortion laws – a consistent topic of debate since the fall of communism in 1989.

Abortion was available virtually on demand in Poland between 1956 and 1989. Under state socialism, difficult living conditions or a difficult personal situation were grounds for termination. But in 1993, the country's comparatively liberal abortion laws were comprehensively overturned. With post-communism came one of the most restrictive abortion laws in Europe.

There have been numerous heated parliamentary debates since then, as well as repeated opinion polling and many demonstrations that have seen both pro-life and pro-choice groups calling for changes to the law.

Restrictive laws

Abortion is only legally permissible in Poland under certain strict conditions. If the pregnancy constitutes a threat to the life or health of a woman, if prenatal examination indicates heavy, irreversible damage of the embryo or if an incurable illness threatening the embryo's viability, it is legal. It is also legal if there is justified suspicion that the pregnancy is the result of an illegal act – but that must be confirmed by a prosecutor.

The law was briefly liberalized in 1996 to allow for abortions on social grounds until the 12th week of pregnancy. But after that decision was ruled unconstitutional, the country reverted to its restrictive legislation.

A drone is loaded up for flight. EPA/Lech Muszynski

KNOW SCIENCE AND WANT TO WRITE?

Register Now To Get Your Own Column!

Top Articles New Comments Events

1. Lexus Hoverboard Gets Off The Ground
2. Homeopsychopaths
3. Vegan Diets Works Better For Weight Loss Than Vegetarian Or Atkins
4. Predictive Coding Theory: How Our Brains Recognize Faces From Minimal Information
5. High-Fat Diet And Natural Hormone May Alleviate Mitochondrial Disease
6. It's Time For Racism In College Admissions To Go
7. For Ph.D. Physicists, Careers Outside Academia Are Terrific

And even though Polish women face greater difficulty than their fellow Europeans in accessing abortion, pro-life movements affiliated with the Roman Catholic Church are still very much mobilised. They want to restrict access to abortion even further.

The basic objective of the 1993 law was to increase the birth rate and to reduce the numbers of abortions carried out. But Poland still has one of the lowest birth rates in Europe. Meanwhile, a 2013 poll found that between a quarter and a third of Polish women had had at least one abortion despite the restrictions.

This is echoed by the World Health Organisation, which estimates that countries in eastern Europe (including Poland), have among the highest abortion rates in the world.

According to the Federation of Women and Family Planning, between 80,000 and 100,000 Polish women obtain abortions each year. The fact that in 2011 only 669 legal terminations were registered makes it clear that the law is not stopping the procedures from being carried out.

Underground abortion

Polish women obtain abortions through a variety of routes. One is via the so-called white coat abortion underground, which can be easily accessed through newspaper adverts promising to “restore menstruation” or provide “gynaecological support – full range”.

Such services are unregulated and costly – the price is estimated to exceed the average monthly wage. Given that helping a woman obtain an abortion is an offense punishable by imprisonment of up to three years, these services must also be kept secret.

The second major route is via abortion tourism to Germany, the Czech Republic, the Netherlands, Austria, Great Britain and Slovakia. However, as well as the cost of travel, such procedures can cost hundreds of euros.

That’s where the drones come in. The third major route is through medical abortion, or so-called abortion pills. Foreign websites such as the one run by Women on Waves, and Women on Web, offer assistance to women seeking abortion. There is also a growing unregulated market in abortion pills on the internet.

Not for everyone

Obtaining an abortion via all these methods is contingent upon having enough money to be able to pay – which means poorer women are more adversely affected by the 1993 law.

There is also considerable evidence that access to abortion, even where it is permissible, is very difficult to obtain. To avoid falling foul of the restrictive laws, doctors in Poland routinely avoid or refuse to perform abortion procedures. They often insist on additional certificates, referrals or letters of approval from supervisors, or use the conscience clause to refuse access.

This means that even women who are legally eligible for abortions still continue to use the abortion underground, because obtaining an abortion through the legal channels is so difficult.

While women of childbearing age who have the financial means to do so continue to find ways to access abortion, Polish society remains polarized on the subject.

Initiatives such as the drone missions are but the latest in a long line of attempts to highlight how unjust the system is in Poland, and how the country continues to violate women’s rights.

By Anne-Marie Kramer, Lecturer, Faculty of Social Sciences at University of Nottingham. This article was originally published on The Conversation. Read the original article.

The Conversation

MORE ARTICLES

- Sepsis Is Largely Unknown But It Puts One Million People In The Hospital Each Year
- Flying Feminism: Drones Drop Abortion Pills On Catholic Poland
- What Book Thieves Tell Us About A Country's Reading Culture

All Articles

ABOUT

The Conversation is an independent source of news and views, funded by the academic and

Statis linked to lower aggression in men, higher in women

The secret to ovulation is in women's faces (but men can't see it)

How New Memories are Formed

How cancer abducts your immune cells – and what we can do about it

Two techniques of temporal migraine surgery are 'equally effective'

more

Links Hot Topics

Science 2.0 Links

Take a look at the best of Science 2.0 pages and web applications from around the Internet!

research community and delivered direct to the public. The...

View Profile

RELATED ARTICLES ON SCIENCE 2.0

- Abortion Paradox: Banning It Does Not Lead To More Harm From Illegal Ones
- Lord Steel Supports Reform Of His Own 1967 Abortion Act
- If You Are Against Abortion, People Are Less Likely To Tell You They Had One
- Pro Choice Campaigners Call For Major Law Reform At Global Safe Abortion Conference In London
- If Abortion Is A Choice Then Sex Selection Abortion Should Remain Legal

YOU MAY ALSO LIKE

Sponsored Links by Taboola

New U.S. Currency Law Now In Effect
Stansberry Research

The Highest Paying Cash Back Credit Card Has Just Hit The Market
NextAdvisor

Experts Use This Trick to Pay Off Their Mortgage. It Might Surprise You!
AmeriVALUE

New Law Cracks Down on Right to Use Cash
Bonner & Partners

These Rarely Seen Historical Photos are Pretty Unnerving
Buzzlamp

20 Stars Who Are Aging Terribly...#6 Will Make You Cringe!
PressRoomVIP

ADD A COMMENT

Your name: *

Anonymous

E-mail: *

The content of this field is kept private and will not be shown publicly.

Homepage:

Large empty text area for comments

Allowed HTML tags: <sup> <sub>  <center> <cite> <th> <dl> <dt> <dd>
  <blockquote> <strike> <object> <param> <embed> <pre>  <table> <tbody>  <tr> <td> <h1> <h2> <h3> <h4> <h5> <h6> <hr> <iframe>

Web page addresses and e-mail addresses turn into links automatically.

Notify me when new comments are posted

All comments Replies to my comment

CAPTCHA

If you register, you will never be bothered to prove you are human again. And you get a real editor toolbar to use instead of this HTML thing that wards off spam bots.

ScientificBlogging

Like Page 8.4k likes

Be the first of your friends to like this

BOOKS BY WRITERS HERE

Making Sense of Evolution
Massimo Pigliucci, ...
Best Price $19.82 or Buy New $30.08
Buy from amazon.com

Privacy Information

REAL CLEAR SCIENCE

- Where Cats Want to Be Petted
- Shark Attacks: Perfect Storm
- Meet the Homeopsychopaths
- Mystery of Kawasaki Disease
- Five Myths About Oil

more

SWAG Forum

Type the text

Privacy & Terms

Post Comment

Preview

Who's Online?

470 guests