'When the pill reaches women on time, I am happy'

TOI \(✓\) Nagpur \(✓/news/nagpur\) Sun, 13 Mar 2016

Summary: He is now associated with organizations like Women on Waves, Women on Web, Women Help Women, Pro-Choice etc. This is supporting the women everywhere in the world where women don't have access to abortion pills, countries where safe abortion is not available and the medicines can be sent through post. On August 14, 2012, Amsterdam's Dr Rebecca Gomperts, who started Women on Waves and Women on Web, walked into my office in Dhantoli. A. I export medicines on cost and so I am not at loss. In fact, I get great satisfaction every time the medicine reaches the women.

Nagpur: Mohan Kale, who is into export of medicines since 1999, has in the past three years taken up supply of pills to various NGOs working in countries where abortion is illegal in order to support the organizations who are fighting for the procedure as a woman's right. He is now associated with organizations like Women on Waves, Women on Web, Women Help Women, Pro-Choice etc. Initially, he started by supplying the pills completely free of cost, but now Kale is doing it on a no-profit no-loss basis. Letters of gratitude from women across the globe are an indicator of Kale's commitment towards them.

TOI spoke to Kale about his involvement in supporting the women's organizations and activists fighting for 'abortion' as a right of every woman. Excerpts from an interview ... Q. You are apparently the first drug exporter from the city and have been in the field for almost two decades. How did you get into the business? A.
